URGENT APPEAL TO THE PRESIDENT

Save the horseracing industry

For the sake of horseracing and the various segments who have painstakingly nurtured its growth through years of hard work and substantial investments in financial resources aggregating P12 Billion pesos, employ thousands of workers and generate P1.2 Billion pesos in annual government revenues, we respectfully request for a complete change of leadership and revamp of the Board of Commissioners of Philracom.

HER EXCELLENCY
GLORIA MACAPAGAL ARROYO
President
Republic of the Philippines
Malacañang Palace
Manila, Philippines

HER EXCELLENCY:

It is with the deepest respect that we, members of the local horseracing industry, reiterate our urgent appeal to you for a complete revamp of the Philippine Racing Commission (Philracom) in view of the deplorable state of affairs since the appointment of retired Gen. Florencio Fianza as Chairman of said government agency.

In our original letter to Her Excellency dated March 5, 2007, we brought to your attention Gen. Fianza's belligerent attitude against the horse owners, his lack of knowledge on the rudiments and intricacies of racing which has led to the issuance of controversial resolutions and his total failure to muster the support of the various segments of the industry, thereby causing confusion on the direction and growth of local horseracing. In addition, Gen. Fianza used "vulgar" language in addressing an industry forum, a misconduct not befitting a gentleman and public servant. That meeting ended with a very deep animosity and a continuing distrust of the horse owners on the incumbent Chairman.

Since then, local horseracing has been in the doldrums and continues to operate in a vacuum. No clear course of action has been charted as to the overall direction of the sport, to the chagrin and absolute dismay of all concerned. Added to these woes are a new set of erroneous policy directives which, at best, only damage rather than uplift the sport, to wit:

1. A Philracom "tentative" resolution dated June 14, 2007 on importation of racehorses was passed which seeks to resurrect antiquated policies which have been negated by previous commissions and updated by the same to conform to prevailing international standards of horseracing. The restrictions on age qualification, purse earnings abroad are likewise passé. The restriction on ownership status contravenes our nation's free trade policy and of doubtful constitutionality. Unfortunately, Gen. Fianza knows no better on these intricate rulings and simply heeds the prodding of "myopic thinkers" in the commission to issue counter-productive resolutions. All horse owners' associations are totally against these retrogressive pronouncements.
2. The revision of the two-year old stakes race calendar from the traditional schedule of July 2007 back to March 2007 threw all horse owners and trainers into a state of confusion because the majority population of two-year olds were still very raw and young and were not yet ready for competitive racing. Why this resolution was passed puzzled many and horse owners voiced out in unison that indeed, this is another clear indication that Gen. Fianza knew nothing about the basic anatomy of a horse much less the sport of horseracing.

Unfortunately, the prime movers against all these nuisance impositions received summons from Gen. Fianza to air their side of an alleged collusion to boycott the races, which he considered to be an act of economic sabotage. Simultaneously, veiled threats in the form of cardboard coffins were received by these critics in their offices and residences, obviously to intimidate and sow fear in them. This narcissistic police mentality has no place in this "Sport of Kings."

When Gen. Fianza assumed the position of Chairman, the betting public thought that he is the "white knight" who can smoothen the perennial problems of illegal bookie operations, the use of banned drugs on horses, the much-to-be desired officiating of our race stewards and dishonest jockeys – they too were disappointed as their new chairman and his colleagues in the commission did nothing substantial to solve these problems. All told, this litany of problems including previous preposterous rulings on handicapping and allocation of prize money contained in our original letter will continue to persist for as long as we have an inefficient commission under the current leadership. This is truly a classic case of pure managerial incompetence in running the commission.

Sad to say, Gen. Fianza is simply not the right man for the job.

Madame President, in line with your planned re-organization of the bureaucracy and your earnest desire to recruit the best and brightest to run industries such as horseracing, we urgently reiterate our request for a complete revamp of the Philracom to pave the way for a new commission composed of people who possess competence, integrity and dedication to the job at hand. We need people who truly understand the rudiments of the game and are well-equipped with the mental calisthenics to untangle the mess created by the Fianza commission and adroitly craft the correct regulatory policies.

Hopefully, this urgent appeal would be given due consideration by Her Excellency.

Signed:

Inauguration of the
New Container Terminal-I
Subic Bay Port Development Project

19 July 2007

by

HER EXCELLENCY GLORIA MACAPAGAL-ARROYO

President, Republic of the Philippines

MESSAGE

Congratulations to the men and women of the Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority (SBMA) as you open the Subic Bay Freeport's New Container Terminal 1, moving us closer to our vision of making the Subic Bay Freeport the regional shipping hub of the Asia-Pacific region.

Subic Bay has built-in advantages over other ports in the region because of its close proximity to China, Taiwan, Japan, Korea, and other Asian countries, its natural deep harbor with excellent support facilities, its low tariff rates, and state-of-the-art safety navigational and communications systems. Adding to these competitive advantages are Subic Bay's airport, seaport and industrial/techno parks which are integrated into its infrastructure base.

Indeed, with this project, we stay on course in developing Subic along with Clark, into the most competitive international service and logistics center in Southeast Asia.

Again, my warmest congratulations to the men and women of SBMA on the opening of this new container terminal.
Keep up the good work!

Mabuhay kayong lahat!

KITCHEN RESCUE
Reggie Aspiras

So very well

AS I SAT IN KOZAI, UPON THE recommendation of good friends Peek Ching and Denise Hipolito, I was fooled into thinking that I was in a hip "concept" tea house in the heart of Tokyo.

Scanning through the visually perfect menu, I was convinced that Kozai was a Japanese franchise or, at least, Japanese national owned. But sometimes, what seems obvious is not.

What a pleasant surprise it was for me to see Anthony So, grocery bags in tow!

Straight off his stint as graphic artist in Shanghai, he came home armed with a thought: "Bakit walang green tea shops sa Manila?"

Anthony, an Ateneo [illegible] major and freelance graphic artist who incidentally loves to cook, single-handedly scribbled his dreams to reality. And when I say single-handedly, I mean that with no exaggeration.

He himself designed the tea house, did the interiors, graphically designed and photographed the menu, conceptualized, experimented and styled the food, which is Japanese fusion, by the way, did merchandising of the little tea trinkets being sold, and, to boot, personally manages the whole operation [illegible]

Fortunately, we were a large group so we were able to try practically everything on the menu.

I personally found the tempura [illegible]

The beverage concoctions are enough to confuse: matcha, genmaicha, [illegible] or matcha tea, organic or soy; hot or cold; blended or stirred; with lemon, cream or milk. They even have [illegible] the famous Frappuccino.

Indeed, at 29 years old, he has done well. So, so well!
